Afgrænsning

Udlændingestyrelsens Landedokumentation har indsamlet information om situationen i det tidligere kurdisk-kontrollerede område, Afrin, samt om den Obligatoriske Selvforsvarstjeneste og rekruttering til kurdisklede styrker. Notatet er baseret udelukkende på åbne skriftlige kilder, dvs. nyhedsmedier og rapporter fra diverse organisationer samt enkelte akademiske kilder.

1. Konflikt og kontrol i Syriens kurdiske områder

I borgerkrigens første år, mens det syriske regime og opposition var optaget af at bekripe hinanden i andre dele af landet, konsoliderede kurdiske styrker kontrol over store dele af Nordsyrien. Uden konfrontation med regimet fik det kurdiske parti Demokratisk Union (Partiya Yekîtiya Demokrat, PYD) og dets væbnede grene YPG/YPJ<sup>1</sup> kontrol over de kurdiskbefolkede områder langs den tyrkiske grænse: Afrin, Kobane og Jazeera.<sup>2</sup> I juni 2012 trak det syriske regime hovedparten af sine styrke tilbage fra området og bibeholdt blot en mindre tilstedeværelse i Jazeera.<sup>3</sup>

1.1. Syrian Democratic Forces(SDF)

Med støtte fra USA blev Syrian Democratic Forces (SDF) formet i oktober 2015 som en koalition mellem den kurdiske PYD-milits YPG/YPJ<sup>1</sup> og en række lokale arabiske og assyriske militser. Det skete som led i kampen mod Islamisk Stat (IS), efterhånden som YPG rykkede dybere ind i arabiske majoritetsområder.<sup>4</sup> YPG forblev den stærkeste milits og udgør rygraden af SDF.<sup>5</sup> Fra 2015 til 2018 udvidede SDF sin kontrolzone langt ud over de kurdiske majoritetsområder og indtog næsten hele det territorium, som IS tidligere kontrollerede øst for Eufrat; inklusiv Syriens mest betydningsfulde oliefelter samt byerne Manbij og Tabqa på flodens vest-side.<sup>6</sup> Således kontrollerede SDF nu mere end en fjerdedel af det syriske territorium.<sup>7</sup>

1.2. Tyrkisk intervention

YPG har dybe organisatoriske, personlige og ideologiske forbindelser til Kurdistans Arbejderparti (Partiya Karkerên Kurdistanê, PKK), som fortsætter en årtier lang oprørskamp mod den tyrkiske stat. Derfor har SDFs fremrykning siden 2015 ansporet tyrkisk militær intervention af to omgange. I 2016 angreb Tyrkiet sammen med tyrkiskstøttede oprørsgrupper IS og blokerede samtidig kurdiskledede styrkers linje mellem de nordøstlige besiddelser og den nordvestlige enklave, Afrin.<sup>8</sup> Den 20. januar 2018 indledte Tyrkiet med tyrkiskstøttede oprørsgrupper Operation Olive Branch og angreb dermed Afrin.<sup>9</sup> Den 18. marts 2018 indtog de Afrin by og fortrængte de kurdiskledede styrker samt tusindvis af civile kurdere fra området.<sup>10</sup>

I modsætning til Kobane og Jazeera, som kom under amerikansk indflydelse i forlængelse af den internationale koalitions kamp mod IS, var Afrin indtil januar 2018 under russisk luftrum og beskyttelse.<sup>11</sup> Det var derfor med Ruslands accept, at Tyrkiet indtog Afrin.<sup>12</sup> Som tyrkerne vandt terræn under Operation Olive Branch i Afrin, lagde de pres på USA ved at true med at udvide deres operationer til Manbij; en omstridt SDF-kontrolleret by vest for Eufrat, som USA hjalp med at erobre fra IS i 2016 og i 2018 fortsat havde en militær tilstedeværelse i. Efter pres fra Tyrkiet og som resultat af amerikansk mægling trak YPG sine krigere og rådgivere ud i 2018.<sup>13</sup>

2. Afrin efter Operation Olive Branch

Syrian Observatory for Human Rights (SOHR) vurderer, at 384 civile er omkommet siden begyndelsen af den tyrkiske offensiv.<sup>14</sup>

2.1. Civiles flygt fra kampene

I forbindelse med kampene i Afrin flygtede 137,070 til Tel Refaat, Nabul, Zahra, Fafin samt andre små landsbyer mellem Afrin og Aleppo kontrolleret delvist af SDF, delvist af den Syriske Regeringshær. Et fåtal flygtede tværs over landet til de andre SDF-kontrollerede områder som Manbij, Tal Tamer og Al-Malikiyah i Nordøstsyrien. Omkring 150.000 forblev i Afrin-området.<sup>15</sup> For at flygte krævede det imidlertid en tilladelse fra PYD, da vejene ud af Afrin blev blokeret af YPG og det civile kurdiske parti, Asayish. Den fri bevægelighed og muligheden for flugt blev yderligere hindret, da den Syriske Regeringshær blokerede folk eller afkraede betaling for tilladelse til bevægelse ind i de regeringskontrollerede områder som Aleppo, Nabul og Zahra. Endvidere har der været rapporter om, at YPG efter kamphandlingerne hindrede civile i at vende tilbage til Afrin.<sup>16</sup>

2.2. Generel sikkerhed efter operationen

På trods af afslutningen af de militære operationer i Afrin, er sikkerhedssituationen i Afrin fortsat ustabil. I kampen om at kontrollere forskellige territorier, har der været indbyrdes kampe mellem de forskellige tyrkiskstøttede oprørsgrupper.<sup>17</sup>

Da YPG tabte Afrin, udtalte de, at de ville ændre deres militære strategi fra konventionel krigsførelse til guerilla-taktikker.<sup>18</sup> Mindre YPG-grupper og nyopståede kurdiske grupperinger har udført flere guerilla-angreb mod tyrkiske tropper såvel som tyrkiskstøttede oprørsgrupper. Samtidig rapporteres der om snigmord på informanter, kollaboratører og højtstående medlemmer af de tyrkiskstøttede oprørsgrupper.<sup>19</sup> Desuden er der meldinger om bilbomber og andre IED'er, hvor både kombattanter og civile er omkommet.<sup>20</sup>

2.3. Ny administrationsstruktur

Tidligere var Afrin-distriktet under kurdisk kontrol og administration. Efter erobringen af Afrin gennemgik administrationen signifikante ændringer med nye autoriteter under tyrkisk opsyn. To tyrkiske statsborgere blev udpeget til at fungere som guvernører i Afrin. De rapporterer løbende til guvernøren i den tyrkiske naboprovin, Hatay. En syrisk statsborger er blevet udpeget som dommer.<sup>21</sup> I slutningen af maj 2018 blev et politikorps bestående af forhenværende medlemmer af væbnede grupper udpeget.<sup>22</sup> Det tyrkiske postvæsen åbnede i november 2018 en afdeling i Afrin by med det formål at udbyde post- og bankydelser samt andre logistiske/service ydelser for de lokale borgere og tyrkiske myndigheder.<sup>23</sup>

2.4. Fri bevægelighed

Afrin-distriktet er blevet inddelt i sikkerhedszoner, der styres af de forskellige oprørsgrupper. Via kontrolposter administreres adgangen til de respektive områder. Det tyrkiske militær kontrollerer udkanten af Afrin-distriktet, og for at rejse imellem de forskellige sikkerhedszoner, landsbyer og byer skal civile have en skriftlig tilladelse af det tyrkiske militær eller de respektive oprørsgrupper.<sup>24</sup> I løbet af de seneste måneder skulle de tyrkiske kontrolposter være blevet afløst af lokale oprørsgrupper.<sup>25</sup>

I landområderne er forekomsten af forsagere fra tidligere kamphandlinger begrænsende for de civiles fri bevægelighed. Der har været tilfælde af civile, som er blevet dræbt pga. forekomsten af forsagere.<sup>26</sup>

2.5. Plyndringer og ødelæggelser

Dagen efter overtagelsen af Afrin by, kom de første meldinger om plyndringer og ødelæggelser.<sup>27</sup> Siden da har FN-organer, Human Rights Watch (HRW) og Amnesty International (AI) rapporteret om fortsatte plyndringer eller ødelæggelser af de civiles ejendomme og formuer, eksempelvis landbrugsudstyr og biler. UNOCHA har løbende modtaget meldinger om, at det især er gået udover kurdere. Dem, der flygtede fra deres hjem under offensiven i februar og marts 2018, har fået konfiskeret deres hjem. Flere tusinde soldater fra diverse oprørsgrupper er sammen med deres familier kommet til Afrin fra Idlib-området og Østghouta. Det gælder også for etniske arabere, som er internt fordrevne. Disse er blevet placeret i de forladte hjem. Andre har oplevet, at deres hjem er blevet plyndret og ødelagt.<sup>28</sup> Derudover er der rapporter om, at disse overgreb har været målrettet folk, der i mere eller mindre omfang har været associeret med de kurdiske styrker. UNOCHA har i et tilfælde bekræftet dette.<sup>29</sup> En lokal borger har desuden gennem HRW berettet, at deres hjem blev konfiskeret, fordi et familiemedlem havde kæmpet for PKK.<sup>30</sup> UNOCHA frygter, at dette kan være et forsøg på en permanent forandring af den etniske sammensætning i området.<sup>31</sup>

Under høstsæsonen i 2018 har de lokale bønder oplevet, at medlemmer af tyrkiskstøttede oprørsgrupper konfiskerede deres olivenproduktion, som er deres levebrød. Mod beskyttelse af produktionen blev bønderne afkrævet enskat.<sup>32</sup>

Endeligt har der været meldinger om angreb på og plyndringer af religiøse helligdomme for Yazidier, der ifølge UNHRC synes at have haft sekteriske undertoner.<sup>33</sup>

2.6. Arbitrære arrestationer, tortur, kidnapninger og forsvindinger

Tyrkiskstøttede oprørsgrupper har udført arbitrære arrestationer, og UNHRC rapporterer om brug af tortur samt andre overgreb, især rettet mod folk af kurdisk oprindelse. Heriblandt er aktivister, der åbenlyst kritiserer oprørsgrupperne, og folk der af oprørsgrupperne menes at være kritiske. Ligeledes er folk, der er anklaget for at støtte PYD eller YPG, blevet arresteret og forhørt af medlemmer af oprørsgrupper såvel som tyrkiske officerer.<sup>34</sup> Der er også meldinger om arrestationer af medlemmer af den tidligere lokaladministration og deres familier, journalister og folk, der menes at støtte den syriske centralregering.<sup>35</sup>

I forhold til kidnapninger og forsvindinger har UNOCHA dokumenteret mindst elleve sager, hvor civile, inklusiv kvinder og børn, er blevet kidnappet og løsladt mod betaling af løsepenge. I andre sager er det stadig uvist, hvor folk er henne.<sup>36</sup> På baggrund af interviews med de lokale beretter AI om samme forhold.<sup>37</sup>

3. Obligatorisk Selvforsvarstjeneste og YPG/SDF-rekruttering

I juli 2014 vedtog administrationen i de kurdisk-kontrollerede områder Loven for Obligatorisk Selvforsvarstjeneste, som pålægger mænd mellem 18 og 30 år at tjene i Selvforsvarsstyrkerne under YPG (Hezen Xweparastine, HXP).<sup>40</sup> Kvinder kan melde sig frivilligt.<sup>41</sup>

Loven blev først implementeret i Jazeera i november 2014<sup>42</sup> og senere i Afrin i maj 2015.<sup>43</sup> I Kobani blev loven indført i juni 2016<sup>44</sup>; efter dannelsen af SDF. Dog skriver Abdullah Al-Jabasini, at YPG allerede i 2012 begyndte at indkalde folk. På baggrund af sine kilder pointerer han dog samtidig, at rekrutteringspraksissen dengang var mild, og at der var mulighed for at afslå eller betale bestikkelse for at undgå tjeneste, men at unge efter indførelse af loven bliver taget med tvang.<sup>45</sup>

Loven om obligatorisk selvforsvarstjeneste afkræver hver familie at stille et medlem ad gangen til at udføre tjenesten.<sup>46</sup> Der er tre undtagelser: 1) familiemedlemmer til personer, der er blevet martyret, 2) enebørn, og 3) personer der af medicinske årsager ikke kan udføre deres tjeneste.<sup>47</sup> Frivillig tjeneste i YPGs kamptropper, ophæver ligeledes denne pligt.<sup>48</sup>

En kilde fra 2015 anfører, at kvinder i praksis også kan tvangsrekrutteres.<sup>49</sup>

3.1. Den obligatoriske selvforsvarstjenestes varighed

Varigheden af tjenesten er blevet ændret over tid.<sup>50</sup> En version af loveteksten fra 2017 gældende for Jazeera siger, at tjenesten nu varer 12 måneder.<sup>51</sup> Dette bakkes op af en Mercy Corps-rapport udgivet i marts

3.2. Rekruttering uden for de kurdiske majoritetsområder (SDF)

Da SDF erobrede Manbij indførte de i samarbejde med de lokale råd Loven for Obligatorisk Selvforsvarstjeneste, hvilket dog førte til modstand blandt de lokale, hvorfor man trak loven tilbage og i stedet opfordrede folk til at melde sig frivilligt.<sup>54</sup> Det samme hargjort sig gældende i Raqqa. Ifølge Fabrice Balanche, har befolkningen i Raqqa dog affundet sig med loven.<sup>55</sup> Det er uklart, om SDF også hargjort det til et spørgsmål om frivillighed i Raqqa, og om det stadig er frivilligt i Manbij, og det er i det hele taget uklart, hvordan praksis for rekruttering er uden for de kurdiske majoritetsområder. NSO har rapporteret, at myndighederne havde givet familier frit lejde inden for en bestemt tidsramme til at sende deres sønner til tjenesten. Herefter havde militærpolitiet opsøgt og arresteret mænd i landsbyer øst for Raqqa for at sende dem til træningscentre.<sup>56</sup>

Ifølge det Istanbul-baserede institut, Omran For Strategic Studies, blev rekrutterne fra den obligatoriske selvforsvarstjeneste placeret under SDF's kommando fra begyndelsen af 2016. I august 2017 var der tilføjet

6.000 af disse rekrutter til SDF. Studiet viser en liste over enheder, der er blevet trænet i arabiske majoritetsområder. Listen beskriver rekrutterne som værende både frivillige og tvangsrekrutterede.<sup>57</sup> Syrian Observatory for Human Rights (SOHR) beskriver ligeledes den obligatoriske selvforsvarstjeneste som værende under SDF's rækker.<sup>58</sup>

3.3. Kamphandlinger

Rekrutterne i den obligatoriske selvforsvarstjeneste indgår i den styrke, der hedder HXP (Hêzên Xweparastinê).<sup>59</sup> Denne styrke bruges primært som hjælpetropper. De står bl.a. for at sikre områder ved at

3.4. Unddragelse og aftrædelse

I en version af lovteksten fra 2017 gældende for Jazeera fremgår det, at personer uden lovlig udsættelse og tjenesteplichtige uden tjenestebog bliver sendt direkte til træningslejre.<sup>66</sup> Flere kilder melder om eksempler på eftersøgning og arrestation af tjeneste-unddragere.<sup>67</sup> Andre kilder beskriver pres om at melde sig til tjenesten fra kurdiske autoriteters side bl.a. i form af kampagner og erklæringer.<sup>68</sup> Abdullah Al-Jabassini melder, at borgere, der afslog at tjene, i nogle tilfælde blev frataget adgang til elektricitet, brændsel, uddannelse og mad. Samtidig blev aftjening en måde, hvorpå man kunne få bedre adgang til diverse ydelser.<sup>69</sup>

Mediekilden Syria Direct rapporterede i 2017, at loven praktiseres forskelligt, alt efter i hvilket område den gælder. I de nordlige kurdiske majoritetsområder søger de lokale myndigheder nogle gange efter mænd, der forsøger at undgå tjenesten, mens man i Tabqa og Manbij efter pres fra fremtrædende lokale og stammeledere har haft en politik om kun at bruge frivillige.<sup>70</sup>

I en version af lovteksten fra januar 2016 fremgår det, at personer på trods af at være i besiddelse af en godkendt udsættelse af tjenesten vil blive arresteret og sendt til træningscentre, hvis de bliver fanget i at krydse grænsen udenudrejsetilladelse.<sup>71</sup>

Ifølge Omran For Strategic Studies er der en enhed ved navn Military Discipline Units, en slags militærpoliti, som bl.a. opsøger personer, der ikke har meldt sig til den obligatoriske tjeneste, og informerer dem om deres pligter. De samarbejder med den lokale administration i forhold til at udføre retskendelser. Det er også dem, der udsteder dokumentation for den obligatoriske tjeneste.<sup>72</sup> SOHR melder, at dertil det civile kurdiske politi, Asayish, som opsøger personer.<sup>73</sup>

I november 2016 gav de kurdiske myndighederne amnesti til folk, der havde unddraget sig den obligatoriske selvforsvarstjeneste, og som frivilligt meldte sig. Hidtil blev der tilføjet tre måneders ekstra tjeneste, såfremt man unddrog sig tjenesten. Denne tilføjelse fjernede man med amnestien for at få flere til at melde sig frivilligt.<sup>74</sup>

Efter endt tjeneste kan man, ifølge Balanche, vælge at fortsætte eller vende hjem.<sup>75</sup> Hvis man melder sig under YPG's rækker får man en månedlig løn.<sup>76</sup>

I august 2018 rapporterede SOHR, at flere personer fra HXP annullerede deres kontrakter af frygt for hævnangreb og snigmord fra IS-associerede celler. SOHR melder ikke om konsekvenser for disse unddragende.<sup>77</sup>

3.5. Rekruttering til YPG og SDF

Det er uklart, om der er et skel mellem YPG og SDF på den ene side og HXP på den anden side. Nogle kilder fra 2015 melder/oplyser, at der ikke er noget skel mellem rekruttering til YPG og HXP, og at den obligatoriske selvforsvarstjeneste fungerer som rekrutteringsbase til YPG.<sup>78</sup> Mercy Corps behandler dem som separate enheder.<sup>79</sup> OFSS behandler HXP som en separat enhed med en separat kommandostruktur, dog med overlap ind i SDF.<sup>80</sup>

Balanche pointerer, at mange vælger at tilslutte sig YPG frivilligt af økonomiske årsager, da lønnen er god, og fordi man således er på det vindende hold.<sup>83</sup> Dog tilslutter nogle sig også, fordi YPG-militisen i modsætning til de arabiske militærer i SDF ikke er under klan-ledelse. Dermed er det en måde, hvorpå unge arabiske mænd kan undgå de sociale hierarkier i de arabiske klaner og gennem YPG blive løftet socialt.<sup>84</sup> Mercy Corps melder om det samme og pointerer yderligere, at det i de kurdiske områder kan være sværere at komme i arbejde uden bevis for, at man har tjent sin selvforsvarspligt. Derudover er det også en måde for mænd at undgå at tjene i militæren National Defence Forces (NDF), som er loyal over for centralregeringen i Damaskus.<sup>85</sup>

Balanche pointerer, at kvinder ikke bliver tvangsrekrutteret, men slutter sig til YPJ på frivillig basis. I nogle tilfælde ses, at kvinder slutter sig til for at flygte fra social kontrol.<sup>86</sup>

3.6. Rekruttering af mindreårige

Kurdiske myndigheder har flere gange officielt erklæret ikke at ville involvere børn i kamphandlinger.<sup>87</sup> Trods det har bl.a. HRW løbende kunnet dokumentere tilfælde af mindreårige, som er blevet indlemmet og har kæmpet for YPG og YPJ.<sup>88</sup> Oplysningerne fra HRW bakkes op af FN. Ifølge FN øgedes rekrutteringen af børn til YPG/YPJ fra 2016 til 2018,<sup>89</sup> og tvang indgik i flere tilfælde som et element i rekrutteringen. FN pegede desuden på en ny trend i 2017, ifølge hvilken arabiske børn blev rekrutteret af væbnede kurdiske grupper inden for rammerne af SDF.<sup>90</sup>
